

Swarm: mission status five months after launch

Rune Floberghagen and the Swarm Mission Team

European Space Agency, Directorate of Earth Observation Programmes, Frascati, Italy (rune.floberghagen@esa.int, 39 0694180296)

Swarm - ESA's magnetic field mission - was launched on 22 November 2013. At the time of the EGU meeting, we will be five months into the mission, and the final constellation of the three satellites will have been deployed. This contribution describes the overall mission status, the instrument data quality, the status of the science data systems and of the cal/val campaign. We also present our plans towards the public release of all Swarm data.