

Frequency and phase analysis of daily reprocessed solutions from selected EPN stations

P. Kaminski, M. Figurski, and K. Kroszczynski

Military University of Technology, Department of Applied Geomatics, Warsaw, Poland

This paper treats about frequency analysis of up component on reference stations. The evaluation of up component was possible based on daily solutions of EPN reprocessed stations. We used Fast Fourier Transform, wavelet analysis as a way of evaluating frequency. There was an effort undertaken to find common and individual frequencies. Finding common frequency is a must for further phase analysis.