

Numerical modeling of the 2010 Chilean tsunami in the Pacific using dynamically interfaced nested model

Irina Nikolkina, Bernard Dudon, Narcisse Zahibo, and Efim Pelinovsky

Laboratoire de Recherche en Géosciences (LaRGe), Département de physique, Université des Antilles et de la Guyane, Guadeloupe

Results of numerical simulation of the trans-oceanic propagation of tsunami waves generated by the Chilean earthquake occurred on February 27, 2010 are presented. Numerical simulation is performed with the MOST code using nested grids. To produce numerical calculation the GEBCO bathymetry with resolution of 30 seconds is used.