

Overview of satellite surface force modelling for science and space geodesy

Marek Ziebart

University College London, Civil, Environmental and Geomatic Engineering, London, United Kingdom (marek@cege.ucl.ac.uk)

This paper will review recent advances in space vehicle surface force modelling for several classes of mission and will outline the areas of research that look promising to improve both orbit prediction and orbit determination in the next five years.