Bedmap2; Mapping, visualizing and communicating the Antarctic sub-glacial environment.

The Bedmap2 project has been a large cooperative effort to compile, model, map and visualize the ice-rock interface beneath the Antarctic ice sheet. Here we present the final output of that project; the Bedmap2 printed map. The map is an A1, double sided print, showing 2d and 3d visualizations of the dataset. It includes scientific interpretations, cross sections and comparisons with other areas.

Paper copies of the colour double sided map will be freely distributed at this session.
