

Women in UK Ocean Science: Experiences of female leadership roles at sea

→ Gender and inclusivity in UK seagoing marine science: progress, achievements and ambitions

Our initiative has evolved... our aims are to build a discussion based on:

- Appreciation of the history of women in UK seagoing research (as scientists, technicians and crew)
  - Discussion of recent successes in gender focused equity, diversity and inclusion initiatives
  - Identification of where and how further improvements could be made...
- ...and the relevance of these improvements for tackling other forms of underrepresentation in UK marine science at all career levels.

We focus on gender, and gender intertwined with other protected characteristics to include an intersectional view, in promotion of participation and leadership in seagoing marine science across disciplines.
