

Little meteorological workshop

K. Špoler Čanić and D. Rasol

Meteorological and Hydrological Service, Zagreb, Croatia (spoler@cirus.dhz.hr)

Little meteorological workshop (LMW) is a project the main goal of which is promotion and popularisation of meteorology in Croatia. The project has been taking place at the Science Festival in Zagreb since 2007 where the audience includes the general public. Since 2009 the project has been introduced as an extracurricular school activity in some primary schools where the main audience are children and teachers.

Here, the methods used in the LMWs will be presented. Furthermore, the evaluation results of the LMWs that were held in schools will be shown.