

CHEOPS,

CHEOPS presentation of the scientific program of the mission consortium

D. Queloz, Cavendish Laboratory J J Thomson Avenue Cambridge, CB3 0HE, UK; Geneva University,

W. Benz: Universität Bern Physikalisches Institut, Gesellschaftstrasse 6 CH-3012 Bern

Please make sure that your pdf conversion results in a document with a page size of 237 x 180 mm!

Abstract

The aim of the scientific program of the CHEOPS consortium is to provide us with a comprehensive scientific program focused on exoplanet science. Its goal is to get unique sets of data allowing us to make progress in our understanding how planets form and evolve with the goal to improve universal model for planetary systems and further explore diversity in planetary systems. This program has been assembled by CHEOPS Science Team and board members.

An overview including some program highlights will be presented in this talk