Annotating All Knowledge Coalition Face-to-Face: Recap from the Berlin Community Meeting

Heather Staines

Director of Partnerships, Hypothesis

On October 24, the Annotating All Knowledge Coalition (https://hypothes.is/annotating-all-knowledge/) joined forces with the Collaborative Knowledge Foundation to host the Berlin Community Meeting (https://www.eventbrite.com/e/berlin-community-meeting-tickets-32330736102) to explore shared infrastructure, including the various roles that open interoperable annotation can play. We asked presenters to place a particular focus on annotations and FAIR data principles. Please join us for a recap of the AAKC track highlights, including information on participants and use cases. The AAKC track was planned in conjunction with European PubMed Central, ContentMine, PaperHive and Pundit.
